To Whom It May Concern:

I am sending the University of Oregon's Lobbying Report to you by mail as I experienced difficulty with the digital signature. I received a pop-up that said a digital signature was not on file. As Michael Redding has a digital signature from ACES according to their letter sent to us on February 21st of last year, I called ACE for help.

I called ACES and after a very long wait I was helped by one of their representativ Actually 'help' is not the appropriate word, I was read the riot act for having information that only the signer should have. I pointed out that I serve as the confidential secretary to the signer, Michael W. Redding. As Mr. Redding was not on the phone his certification was revoked and he, not me, has to reapply. Needle to say the encounter was frustrating. I understand how busy they are at Digital Signature Trust, however, I found the young man officious and lacking in any customer understanding. He was emphatic cutting me off at time with, "Can you sign a mortgage for him?" And, "He agreed to our terms by signing the paperwork I've never seen the signature – I just click on the signature bar and assume that somewhere it is seen on the Lobbying Report as it is masked from view.

As I cannot see this problem getting resolved today I called the Clerk of the House Representatives and spoke to a very kind and helpful young woman who suggeste this mailing with today's postmark. I hope that is will be satisfactory for you too. is unfortunate that there is only the one approved place to receive digital signature I find it hard to believe that all lobbyists have the time to personally apply and tall to ACES.

Thank you for your consideration in this matter.
